Large Groups Enjoy Winter Sports Park Here

7 Former Grayling Winter Queens To Attend Carnival

Four Queens Now Entered In Contest

Large groups filled the Grayling Winter Sports Park over the weekend making it the best season so far. Winter Sports resident William Joseph announced that the groups were 332 Boy Scouts and 89 Girl Scouts from Lansing area, a large group from State University, a group from St. Clair County and Detroit Lutheran group.

On Wednesday 230 from the Michigan Academy of Holly visited the day at the park. The day was a very busy day. A district institution. Overseeing the day was Ed Kopp, an instructor at the Academy.

As a result, the board has held a special meeting for 2 p.m. on Saturday, February 28th, at which time Mr. Carlson explain what funds are available for roads, how other funds can be obtained, what roads cannot be improved, action taken by voters in some cases, various other informative as concerned with improvements in the Grayling Township system.

Anyone at all curious about township roads should plan to be at the meeting. It has been specifically planned to provide answers to often-asked questions, and the board feels fortunate in obtaining Mr. Carlson's services for the meeting.

Old Mercy Faces Wrecker's Axe
The old Mercy Hospital has been purchased by Jack Millikin, according to Sister Marietta, hospital administrator. Work is to be started this week on tearing the building down. The decision to remove the building was made because of the excessive cost to modernize it sufficiently for resale or use as a convalescent home. The old hospital was constructed several years ago as having inadequate fire protection, after which a sprinkling system was installed by the Sisters. However, since it is a frame building, fire insurance for the building for resale would be too great.

Children's Aid Activities Grow In This Area
In reviewing Michigan Children's Aid Society activity in this area for the past year, a "glow of sustained increase" was discerned in practically every area.

Jack Pine's STUMP

Now I have always considered myself a stable sort of fellow, able to accept the little pleasures of life with the required amount of indifference which adults profess when they are pleased. (Kids can't do this; and express their emotions just as they feel them. Adults don't because it wouldn't be an "adult thing to do.")

I sat down the other Friday night to watch the Kenny Roberts show on channel 13. I was utterly convinced that seeing my first-born on television would be a fairly easy incident to accept. The kid was there in the studio with many other Grayling Cub Scouts, and after all, I thought, Scouts are Scouts, and mine wouldn't be any different than any of the others.

But for the first ten minutes I didn't see him, and by the time I did spot the boy, I had decided that he had missed the cars going to Cadillac, had to go to the bathroom and missed the telecast, got lost in Cadillac Mall, or been taken to the hospital for a very serious condition, a perforated ulcer. Then I saw him, magnificently indifferent to what was going on, and I let out shrieks of joy and recognition. I felt a bit ridiculous when the other kids of the family eyed me with a sort of look which said, "The old man's gone off his rocker."

So anyway, bursting with waves of parental pride and pride in all over the place, and making insane comments about how "intelligent he looks," I survived the half hour. I will admit that I was proud, a bit proud, and I will admit there wasn't a dad in Grayling with a kid on that show who wasn't just as proud. All of which proves that it doesn't take much to make fathers happy... at least this father happy.

While on the subject of TV, I would like to express the very personal opinion that the best way to go to bed at night, feeling cheerful is watch that 11 o'clock news on channel 7. Our TV only gets channel 7 during especially good nights in the winter, and the "good" giving the 11 o'clock news can't be a bad thing. It's a sort of sort for his ability to put interest and humor into what would otherwise be pretty dull stuff. After three years of watching the "night station," I find the winter time reception freaks in my TV not only stimulating, but refreshing. Might even go so far as to put up an antenna which is aimed at Traverse. Just to watch the man would be worth the cost. At any rate, he cheers up my evenings to no little extent.

Not too long ago I became entangled in a discussion concerning religion and the meaning attached to it. It was rather an in-depth discussion in which no one was getting anywhere and the points made were obvious and without too much appropriateness. Then some good soul made the usual remark that "after all, this life is really just a preparation for the next."

Polio Still Threat For 29 Million
The danger of paralytic polio attacks in substantial numbers will continue to exist so long as waves of Americans suspectible age fail to get Salk shots, spokesmen for the March of Dimes warn.

Although 80,000,000 persons have been vaccinated, 29,000,000 persons, or 27 per cent of the 90,000,000 to 100,000,000 who had received no Salk protection near year's end.

March of Dimes officials also reported that only 35,000,000 or 32 per cent of polio's most potential target had avoided the disease. The full three-shot series that provides 90 per cent immunity.

The March of Dimes is now winding up its month-long campaign to raise funds needed in 1958 for the care and rehabilitation of thousands of polio patients.

Urging all the unvaccinated — and partly vaccinated — persons to get the three-shot series is also an important part of the drive.

"If we had any reservations about the vaccine's power, the 1957 decline in new polio cases pretty much dispels such doubts," spokesmen said. "There were about 7,500 cases last year, which compares with 15,400 the year before and a 35,266 yearly average between 1947 and 1956."

"We can still knock out new polio if we use available supplies of vaccine now. If unprotected people only knew of the physical suffering and personal tragedies polio might have in store, they wouldn't hesitate."

Dental Society Sponsors Children Poster Contest

In celebration of National Children's Dental Health week, February 2nd through 8th, the Reservoir District Dental Society of Traverse City is sponsoring a poster contest for elementary school children from the first through seventh grades. The contest is for all the area covered by station WBN-TV, Channel 7, a 13 county area, which includes Crawford County. The object is to interest children in better dental health.

County prize winners are to appear on TV with their posters, for final judging and awarding of the grand prize, which is to be put up by the Dental Society.

Rules for the contest are: 1. Poster subject matter is to be on dental health. 2. Contest is to be limited to children in first through seventh grades. 3. County winner is to be selected February 4th. 4. Posters are to be judged on neatness, originality, and aptness of thought.

At present it is planned to have the final judging at 3:30 p.m. Friday, February 7th, at WBN-TV studio, Traverse City.

Mr. John Alef has consented to act as judge in the Crawford County contest.

Belair Defeats Frederic Eagles, 68-35 Friday
The Frederic Eagles dropped another Snowland D Conference game Friday night at Belair as the Belair quintet took an early lead which they never relinquished.

Belair held a 22 to 11 first period lead and a 31 to 11 intermission edge. They outscored Frederic in both of the final periods. Wilks with 33 points, which almost tied the Frederic total, led the winners.

EB Johnson with 14 and Paul Rolfe with 11 were in the double figures for Frederic. Steve Olson added 5, Maurice Alma 4 and Jack Smith 1.

The Frederic reserves also dropped their contest with the Belair second team. Frederic took an 11 to 3 first period edge and held a 23 to 18 halftime advantage. The Belair reserves scored 20 points in each of the final two periods while the best the Frederic second team could do was 12 points in the final sixteen minutes.

Bailey with 13 was high for the winners with Jerry Gabriel with 15 high for Frederic. Frank Weaver added 8, Bob Midkiff 7, Wayne Barber 3 and Bennie Pratt 2.

Frederic travels to Merritt Tuesday night and entertains Rapid City at home on Friday evening of this week.

Sleeping Sentiment

By Jim Bourrie

Jim Bourrie

"BEYOND A SHADOW OF A DOUBT"

"How do you find yourself in a shadow of a doubt?" was my opening.

"Oh, I throw back the covers . . . and there I am."

Getting up mornings reminds me of the groundhog. According to legend, our hero turns over, stretches, and ambles from his burrow for his annual weather prediction.

If the sun is shining, he blinks his eyes and shuffles back to dreamland. A cloudy, gloomy day terminates his winter siesta . . . he snorts and takes off in search of food. People say this is the sign that Winter is over. If our furry friend sees his shadow, we are supposed to get six more weeks of winter.

Weather conditions help decide our eating habits. Cold winter nights are ideal for popcorn making and apple chafers.

Many of our customers had a lot of fun making caramel apples with Kraft Caramels. Making caramels or popcorn bulk is a simple operation. Melt 28 Kraft Caramels and 2 table-spoons of hot water in the top of a double boiler, and pour over 2 qts. of freshly popped corn.

There's no "shadow of a doubt" that this will help make for extra family friendliness. Turn off the TV, and get everyone in the act. You can pop up some popcorn, and Kraft Caramels when you shop our friendly store this week. We've got 'em.

Many people think that fish is a brain food. Did you ever eat a brain soup? See you next week.

Republicans are looking for a candidate seven months before they try again to wrest the state's top office from the Democrats.

Many will come but only one will be chosen.

The party is working on its "new look" as 1958 gets underway—setting up a $228,700 budget and getting issues organized for the campaign.

They believe Gov. Williams, five terms in office and expected to try again, is the best bet.

For a sixth, is in a more vulnerable spot than at any time in his history-making career in Michigan politics.

Democrats, remembering the landslide cannot be budged from their confidence in Williams, who brought the party back to the back streets and peopled state government from top to near bottom with the party faithful.

Every appointive office is held by Democrats, all administrative offices are in their hands. The last bastion of Republicanism—the legislature—is the party's next major target.

There has been almost complete turnover since Williams, appointed by a Republican governor as a member of the liquor commission, made his debut in 1948 with a victory.

He was the only Democrat at the inaugural Jan. 1, 1949.

Now, Republicans claim they are reviving in their party the same spirit Democrats brought in to their first 10 years of political dominance.

Republicans have a budget for next year and an organization—rebuilt from the ground up in all of Michigan's 83 counties.

They will pay state chairman Lawrence L. Lindemer $21,000 this year, plus a $9,000 expense account. They will keep their publicist, Arnold Levin, and give him an assistant.

Democrats have shown the way of modern politics with professional-type television shows, statewide tours and year-around campaigning.

But most important, Republicans say, are the issues.

"After ten years in office, the governor admits, the state is bankrupt—he admits he is a failure," said Senator Edward Hutchinson (R-Fennville).

They point to the flight of business to other states, charging that the moves are being made to escape Williams' tax proposals. They talk sincerely about the "unhealthy economic climate" produced by Williams' long record of little sympathy for businessmen's problems. They remind it is not so much what business faces today as what might be thrown at them any time while Williams holds the whiphand.

Democrats deny the assertion pointing to valid surveys showing that taxes are only a minor factor in the moves.

"But the businesses and industries are moving out anyway—perhaps not so much because they are threatened with ruin, but because they have been led to believe they might be," said one observer.

The most potent issue, one that Republicans have ignored or only lightly considered in the past, is that Williams has been in office for 10 years.

Few office holders can come up with a convincing answer to the "rule-for-a-change" argument.

Even some Democrats are uneasy about the latest Williams proposal.

The governor first said tax boosts should not be forthcoming this year. Within two months, he proposed a $21,000,000 a year increase in the state intangibles tax.

This, of course, was aimed at the wealthy coupon clippers who live off the state's corporate wealth and whose fortunes are invested.

Shortly after the announcement, protests started flooding Lansing from the widows and the aged retired citizens whose early thrift and wide investments are keeping them solvent and off welfare rolls.

About 57,000 individuals now file intangible tax returns, according to Gerrit Von Covering, director of Inheritance and Intangible Tax Division. And it is suspected many more should be doing so.

Regardless of other factors, the intangible tax has certain political advantages because it hits a relatively small proportion of the population. But a large percentage of those affected are retired, having saved their money when the dollar brought more than it does today.

About 40% of the taxpayers pay less than $50. This equals 34% of total revenues. Only 4% pay more than $1,000 which makes up 60% of the tax.

Many now exempt because their savings return are too low, would be caught if the present proposal becomes law; those already covered would be paying about one-third more.

"This Williams idea is merely a tax on thrift," said Hutchinson.

Law enforcement officers are trying again this year to repeal a 1956 law which enabled youths to be licensed to drive motor scooters at the age of 14.

It was proposed by the permanent committee of law enforcement officials because of the number of deaths resulting from motor scooter accidents.

The repealer would require that the drivers have driver education training in the schools and obtain licenses only when they become 16, on a restricted basis, or 18.

From The Page News and Courier, Luray, Virginia: The admission by competent authority that Russia is forging ahead of us in science and other matters of higher learning should cause those who consider schooling a necessary nuisance to take a second look.

It may take a hydrogen bomb perched on the nose of a Russian rocket to wake us up but we have more faith in the fighting spirit of the American people than to believe they will ignore the implications of failure to put an earth satellite in orbit.

If the failure of the satellite test did nothing more than wake us up to the critical nature of the times that failure could easily be the greatest success of the century.

For the past week there has been a tremendous furor over more and better education for American youth. The Russian successes and the American failures have jarred us no end but it seems to us that a little soul-searching and self analysis would have mirrored this moment.

This country has given education a secondary position whether we like it or not. Funds for capital expenditure for education have been granted begrudgingly and teachers in many instances are paid no better than farm hands. We have indulged the teen-agers in critical years of learning to the point where they are coddled with scholastic entertainment and pleasures in addition to selecting their own courses which are, nine times out of ten, along the lines of least resistance. The Russians on the contrary require certain basic learning in academic studies from all students and there is not much play about it. All children are required to take math and a high school graduate has four years of physics.

We need scientists and scientists have to know a lot about mathematics to get anywhere. When children are imbued with the idea that mathematics is difficult and that mathematics are screw-balls and at the same time have the privilege of cancelling it from required curricula we can hardly expect anything more than what has happened in the past week.

We think America will arise to the challenge but we can't do it like it or not. Funds for capital expenditure for education have been granted begrudgingly and teachers in many instances are

Super Highway Thru Crawford Co. To Be Under Contract By Late 1960

State Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie today announced a schedule for letting some 800 miles of highway construction contracts through July 1, 1962, planned in his five-year, one-a-quarter-billion dollar highway program.

The schedule revealed:

1. The US-12 expressway from Detroit to the Indiana line near Chicago and connecting major cities along the route would be entirely under contract by the fourth quarter of next year.

2. The US-16 expressway from Detroit to Muskegon would be entirely under contract by the fourth quarter of next year.

3. An expressway from the Ohio line near Sylvania north to the Mackinac Bridge would be completely under contract by the fourth quarter of 1960. This route would reconstruct US-23 from Ohio line near Sylvania north connecting Ann Arbor, Flint, Bay City, Midland, Clare and north in the vicinity of US-27 to the bridge.

The schedule covered contracts which will give Michigan 900 miles of new expressway connecting major Michigan cities of 50,000 population or more, provide for new construction or reconstruction of a total of 2,900 miles of highways, pave all remaining 800 miles of gravel roads on Michigan state trunkline highways.

In announcing the schedule, Mackie said:

"Because of financial limitations, this program, despite its size, will only meet about one-third of our highway needs.

"Announcing this five-year schedule is part of my policy to make every effort to be frank with the public about what can be done in the way of new construction and when it can be done.

"I believe this policy will reap benefits for all of us. It will facilitate local planning, give the construction industry a guide to what the program will demand, and when, and it will gear the Department itself to an accelerated long-range program through development of orderly acquisition of right-of-way and engineering schedules.

"It should be clearly understood this schedule is entirely contingent upon the following factors:

"1. It plans on using all forecast state and federal revenues to the maximum; if revenues are increased, the program can be accelerated, and if they are reduced, the program will be delayed.

"2. The schedule is contingent on reaching agreement with local municipalities affected on route location and cost sharing agreements.

"3. The schedule allows time for right-of-way acquisition by negotiation or by condemnation, but could be delayed if extended legal proceedings delay right of entry by the contractor.

"For the first time in history, Michigan has a five-year highway program with its goals and its schedule clearly defined.

"The Highway Department is determined to do all in its power to achieve the program as outlined on schedule. In last analysis, a public works program of this magnitude can only be achieved

Three Choices . . .

There are three ways to meet pending increases in defense spending — increases which are likely to run into the billions.

One way is to increase taxes. Then everyone will have less money to buy the goods and services that keep America's enterprises running and American workers busy at good jobs.

The second way is to take the lid off the national debt limit, and let the government operate on a deficit basis — that is, by spending more than it takes in and making up the gap by borrowing. Then we will see a few and major wave of inflation that could end in economic disaster.

The third way is for the government to rigorously are non-defense spending in every possible way. Top authorities say that $5 billion or more a year could be saved in this fashion.

The third way is the only tolerable choice even though it means curtailing of Federal spending in "unchangeable" areas of benefits and projects dear to a lot of people.

Priced Out Of The Market . . .

The National Association of Manufacturers recently held a convention in New York. According to a Wall Street Journal report of the proceedings, "Most of the nation's industrialists seem to be planning to hold a price on their prices next year." Some are seeking to lower prices, or to offer more for the same price, isn't because industrialists are any more publicized than the rest of us. It is because danger signs appeared in the form of consumer resistance and her competition. In other words, producers don't want to be priced out of the market.

The AFL-CIO big union held its convention in Atlantic City at about the same time. A proposal from delegate that labor hold the wage line was buried in denunciations. Following that, the AP reports, a unanimous vote was given to "... a resolution making 'sizeable' wage boosts, a shorter work week and fringe benefit improvements their 1958 collective bargaining policy."

We have yet to see what the fruits of this policy will be. But one thing is sure — labor can be priced out of the market, with soaring unemployment as the result, just as surely as can industrialists. Will the labor bosses have to learn the hard way that buyers of a product or a day's work can't be forced to consume or employ beyond their ability to pay?

Instrument Of Tyranny

The world has changed immeasurably since Calvin Coolidge was president. But something he said — and restated in different words on occasion after occasion — has a far greater significance now than it had then.

Mr. Coolidge said: "A government which lays taxes on the people not required by urgent public necessity, and sound public policy is not a protector of liberty, but an instrument of tyranny... One of the first signs of the breaking down of free government is a disregard by the taxing power of the right of the people to their own property."

The taxes which "urgent public necessity" plainly require and will continue to require are enormous. That can't be helped. What can be helped is the imposition of taxes for purposes which are not urgent, are not necessary, or which can be accomplished by agencies other than the federal government.

Interesting Events In Grayling 23 Years Ago

INTERESTING ITEMS OF NEWS GATHERED FROM THE FILES OF THE AVALANCHE OF 23 YEARS AGO

January 31, 1935

Grayling's tenth annual winter sports carnival is now a matter of history, leaving memories of three days of delightful pastime and entertainment. Enthusiastically regarded by its promoters as the "most successful winter carnival in the 10-year history of the event, the festival enjoyed the distinction of ideal weather throughout the three-day run. Zero and below-zero weather kept the toboggan slide fast, the skating and hockey rinks firm, and the ski tower and hills ideal for the exhibition jumps that thrilled Saturday and Sunday throngs at the Winter Sports Park. Crowded despite elaborate plans to accommodate the heavy influx of visitors—estimated as 5,000—the park presented a picture of teaming activity throughout Sunday while winter sports fans forgot about sub-zero weather in the excitement of participating in or watching the carnival events. While thousands packed into the sports park, hundreds more jammed the city, alive with crowded activity, and presented a gay picture of carnival festivity. Visitors from all parts of Michigan, Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, and New York thronged to the city and Sports Park in a steady stream that began Saturday morning and was uninterrupted until sun-down Sunday.

It took an extra period of play to do it, but a fighting basketball team from Grayling High School subdued the powerful Alpena Thunderbolts last Friday night. The score was 24 to 20 after thirty-five minutes of furious action, and the Green and White of Grayling proved to be a shade better than the Green and White of Alpena. The best crowd of the season, with half a dozen neighbor towns represented was also treated to another fine game as Houghton Lake's unbeaten five took at 17 to 10 decision away from the local B team. The presence of Kiki Cuyler, who officiated the second game, added a good deal to the sports attraction, for the Cub star is very popular here as elsewhere. The Winter Sports Association added the presence of the Queen and her court, and to round out a varied program she was presented during the half.

Jean Michelson of Detroit was a guest of Mary Gretchen Conline during the Winter Sports carnival. Norman Diamond and Edgar Burns of Saginaw were guests of Miss Veronica Lovely for the Winter Sports Carnival.

Harley Russell and Paul Casalt of Grand Rapids were guests of Misses Ida Granger and Ruth McNeven for the carnival.

Bryan Brady and John Kilpatrick of Detroit were guests at the home of John Brady during the carnival.

Eugene Porter and Ed Gerrow of Flint were guests at the home of E. P. Burgdy for the carnival. Howard Granger, Max Laage of Red Oak, and Stanley Hummel of Maple Forest are among those who have purchased new 1935 Fords.

Mrs. Molly Bosworth returned the last of the week from a ten-day visit with Miss Lottie Sias at Midland and Mrs. Harry Alexander at Bay City. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Roe and Mr. and Mrs. August Moeller of Bay City were Mrs. Bosworth's guests over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Einer Rasmussen, Editor F. J. Irwin of the Marquette Leader, and Miss Bette Milnes, all of Marquette, occupied one of the Gierke cabins on the river and took in the winter sports carnival.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Campbell and daughter, Kay Anne of Gaylord came Friday to visit the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Chalker. Mr. Campbell returned Sunday while Mrs. Campbell and daughter remained for a longer visit.

logger tells an aspen in one of Michigan's state forests and rves a double purpose. Revenue from the sale of state forest mber products goes to the public treasury and is used for forrestation programs. In addition, winter forest cuttings supply food for Michigan's large deer herd. Whitetails feed on cetops left by cutting operations and on new growth which rings up when mature trees are removed.

umber cuttings in state forests

and providing a vital winter supply for the state's main-h deer herd.

ch year thousands of acres of e forest timber are cut in and e deer yards. The low or ny places where deer gather it out the winter. Tops and s from these cuttings have no merial value and are left on ground, providing a ready supply for hungry deer.

venue from the sale of such forrestation purposes. during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1957,

these sales returned a record total of more than $223,000 to the people of Michigan.

Aspen cuttings in particular are important to forest management and wildlife. This tree, once considered an "inferior" species, now is the most important single species in Michigan forests.

Increasing use of aspen in pulpwood industries has been extremely significant in recent years. Aspen is used in the manufacture of paper, containers, excelsior, lumber, wall paneling, furniture and other products.

Aspen also serves as a year-round deer food. In addition to the food left by winter cuttings,
new growth of aspen shoots, twigs and leaves is a big item in the summer diet of whitetails.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh
It's in the bag

Out-of-towners must have wondered what was going on last Tuesday. Every parking meter was covered by a paper bag lettered "Free Parking."

Tuesday was officially designated "Free Parking Day" by the Town Council as a reward
for going a year without a traffic accident.

"Traffic safety, like virtue, in its own reward," said Judge Cunningham as he proposed the motion. "But let's show our drivers we're proud of 'em!"

Weatherwise Groundhog's Due Sunday

ANN ARBOR — Maybe the groundhog is the good weather prophet he's reputed to be because he really gets down to the roots of things.

"The complicated tunnel systems this creature digs measure up to 40 or more feet in length and four feet in depth," says Warren W. Chase, chairman of the Department of Wildlife Management at the University of Michigan.

According to a well-known saw,
the groundhog — or woodchuck —
comes out of his tunnel on February 2nd and looks around to see if he casts a shadow, he runs back in which case we're in for six weeks more of burly winter.

"Emerging from his deep winter hibernation, the woodchuck can be seen standing plump and alert at the opening of his tunnel.
He stands up on his hind feet and braces himself with his short tail and looks around to see whether there are any enemies afoot," says
Professor Chase.

Wondering how much wood a woodchuck can chuck? "Actually the name is not a compound of wood and chuck as is commonly supposed but is a corruption of the Indian word, wejack, a name applied to this animal in the Hudson Bay region. The animal is also sometimes called a 'whistling pig' because it makes whistling sounds when it is excited or if it wishes to warn other animals of danger."

Breeding usually takes place in March and the young — four or five to a litter — are born from around the middle of April to the middle of May. They are born blind, almost naked and helpless.
The common tools — the incisor
teeth — used for gnawing, long nails and forepaws — develop in the next few weeks and within a month the creature is capable of managing on its own.

And what a set of teeth! "In the spring when the woodchuck
comes out, he has to set to work sharpening them immediately by cause they grow so fast it's all he can do to keep up with them. If he neglected them, they could even grow up into his head and kill him," says Professor Chase.

The woodchuck's tunnel prevides winter sleeping for a number of "scroungers" — rabbits, skunks, snakes and weasels may make use of the upper reaches.

This An' That

Don Hoak has been named the most valuable Cincinnati baseball player of 1957 by the Cincinnati
chapter of the Baseball Writers of America. Hoak came to the Red-legs a year ago somewhat in the role of a castoff. Formerly with Brooklyn and the Chicago Cubs, Hoak came to Cincinnati with pitcher Warren Hacker and outfielder Pete Whisenant in a trade for Ray Jablonski and pitcher Elmer Singleton. Hoak took over as regular third baseman during the season. He hit .233, drove in 89 runs and hit 11 homers. . . . The National Association of State Veterinary Commissioners is setting up a $50,000 fund for research in drug detection. Racing commissions in the 25 states where pari-mutuel betting is legal will supply most of the money, part of it coming from the U. S. Trotting Association. Trainers sometimes resort to drugs to make their horses

SEN. POTTER REPORTS

From Washington

SPORTS FANS will be reassured to learn that the Department of Justice is probing the television blackout imposed recently in Detroit, when local folks were not permitted to view the Lions' thrilling victory over the Cleveland Browns
for the national pro football league championship.

With Briggs Stadium sold out
well in advance and standing room in bristling demand, NFL Commissioner Bert Bell vetoed TV coverage for Detroit, while the rest of the nation watched the exciting contest over a coast-to-coast hookup. Up to the time of the opening whistle, appeals from the team, private citizens, public officials and the press failed to budge the commissioner.

If a single individual can deprive hundreds of thousands of loyal fans of a chance to see their team fight for the championship,
then perhaps a change in the law
is needed. I wrote the Attorney General that the public interest is not always served when so much power is placed in the hands of one man. He replied last week that the Antitrust Division has been put to work on the case.

MICHIGAN LAW-MAKERS intend to get natural gas into the Upper Peninsula or know the reason why. The other day I set up a conference in my office at which Representatives Victor Knox, John Bennett and I
urged Federal Power Commissioner Jerome Kuykendall to slash red tape and speed action on this vital resource for the UP. Mr.
Gerald Johnson of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau sat in on the meeting. Two pipelines — Michigan, Wisconsin and Midwestern — want to serve the UP and Mr. Kuykendall promised us fastest possible action. If all goes well gas should be moving up
there within nine months to a year.

EMERGENCY defense funds,
now being rushed through Congress, contain a hefty slice of construction and missile money for Michigan. Out of a total request by President Eisenhower for $1.2 billion, Michigan's share is $195 million for Strategic Air Command dispersal communications, and Jupiter intermediate-range
ballistic missile contracts.

At least $104 million are for Chrysler, tripling the Jupiter contract awarded last week. Another $27,500,000 is for SAGE communications and SAC installation at K. I. Sawyer Air Base near Marquette. Kinross Air Base at Sault Ste. Marie draws almost $24 million for SAC, Selfridge Air Base, at Mt. Clemens another $17 million for SAC, and Wurtsmith Air Force Base at Oscoda pulls over $22 million.

All this is what we term "supplemental" money, requested to beef up the defense establishment between now and next July. The funds will expand Michigan's Air Force plant and provide needed jobs for our people. We must remember that this is an emergency request for the current fiscal year.
Michigan can expect additional benefits from the 1958 budget, already sent to Congress by the President and presently being analyzed by Appropriations Committee staffs in House and Senate.

THE PRESIDENT'S Committee
for Government Contracts, a group which fights racial discrimination, brought over 400 delegates to Washington last week
from all parts of the United States. I had a fine talk with several of the Michiganders who stopped in at my office to discuss job opportunities. They were Mrs. A. A. Banks and Mr. Edward Davis, Mr. Edgar Beozelton, Mr.
John W. Webb, Miss Cora M.
Brown, Mr. R. S. Scruggs, and Mr.
S. E. Briggs, all of Detroit.

THE POST OFFICE Department's austere Washington headquarters has just issued a new plea for co-operation from householders in its well-publicized
campaign to protect letter carriers from dog bites. One of my constituents — a postal worker himself
— has written in, suggesting the perfect solution: "Put those hounds up in sputniks," he demands. "Up there they can't nip
a soul and might help us all out with a few beams." The Post Office Department which declares that "the safety and well-being of 125,000 letter carriers" is at stake,
undoubtedly would agree.

Best Wishes,
Charles E. Potter,
United States Senator.

remark made several years ago about a very old woman who has since passed on. This woman, of extremely pious nature all her life, became even more so in her last years, and would spend several hours each day at her prayers, devotions and meditations. For these hours, she referred to a great stack of prayer books, which she carried with her most of the time. In the same house lived a relative who was a college student, and who likewise spent a great deal of time in the books... books of a different sort. One day this student was busy in his books and the woman had gone into another room with hers, when someone asked where Grandma was. Without looking up, the young man replied, "Cramming for Finals."

Of interest will be the marriage of Miss Joan VanDervoort to Charles Ray Snyder on December 24, 1957. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Leo Tobey of Okemos and the late Ed VanDervoort. She has been on assignment as a teacher-advisor in the U. S. Air Force.

The groom is the son of the Ray Snyders of Bay's Canoe Livery in Grayling, now in Sebring, Fla.

The Snyders were married by the air force chaplain at an afternoon ceremony in the chapel at Garmisch-Partenkirchen, Germany. The religious ceremony, the only one recognized by the U. S. government, followed the civil ceremony, required abroad, on December 24. The newlyweds are taking a picturesque tour of Switzerland and Holland before returning to Lansing February 1st where "Bud" Snyder teaches at West Junior High school.

My sincere thanks to Dr. Henig, the Sisters, nurses and hospital staff for their kind care, and to my many friends who sent flowers and cards while I was in Mercy Hospital.

Survival IS NOT ENOUGH

This is Johnny Fulwiler, of Atlanta, Ga. For three of his six years this gallant little guy has been fighting his way back from one of the most shattering blows a human being can sustain and live—an attack of bulbar-spinal polio that paralyzed his breathing, both his arms, both his legs, and his neck, diaphragm and abdomen.

Once it was hard to believe he'd live at all. He did. Then it seemed impossible he'd ever get out of his iron lung. But he did. Once that hurdle was overcome, it hardly appeared likely he'd some day run and play. But he did that, too.

You see, Johnny's initial survival was just the BEGINNING. It was far from enough for him or for his doctors or for the March of Dimes. And survival is not enough for thousands upon thousands of youngsters and adults still desperately disabled by polio.

The same March of Dimes that capped 20 years of saving lives with the development of the Salk vaccine must now enrich these saved lives by the magic of MODERN rehabilitation. That's why the March of Dimes needs your support today.
